

Stated ratio is predicted eventual total, per 1000

An alternative to the triangular-logistic fit shown below.

This is a triangular-gamma fit.

Not to say this is going to happen, but is in the realm of possibility if we don't do anything.

More data will increase its reliability and hopefully decrease the prediction.

50000
45000
40000
35000
30000
25000
20000
15000
10000
5000

Curious relationship of various countries' peak deaths relative to peak confirmed case. Normally, deaths should follow confirmed case, since it takes a while from when the case is confirmed to death. But as seen below, not always the case!

